COONAWARRA

2013 The Surveyor

Variety

Cabernet Sauvignon.

Winemaker's notes

The best French barriques were selected for this wine from the outstanding 2013 vintage in tribute to John Riddoch Rymill, an extraordinary man who led the expedition which discovered the Antarctic Peninsula.

The nose has complex layers of dark cherries, cassis, mocha and mint chocolate.

As promised by its appearance, the wine is intense yet bright and generous in its complexity of flavours, with plums, star anise and fennel seed. The voluptuous middle palate, abundant in fruit and elegantly structured by the oak and tannins, offers to linger in a long, convincing after taste.

Enjoy this wine on its own, or with food, but please slow down and take your time to meet and savour this intense Coonawarra cabernet sauvignon.

Cellaring

Careful cellaring for ten to twenty years will reward those with patience.
